Please note that no cavy is to be sold for less than $35. Please bring boxes for your cavies to go to their new home in.

All cavies must be in good health and over 250 grams in weight. Free from any break in the skin or hair loss.

A card will be given to each purchaser, with Cavy West contacts and the breeders name. This is to guarantee the health of the sold cavy and for further information.

Benching fee of $5 for every cavy sold, there will be no fee for unsold cavies.

Please attach detail tags to your cages BEFORE placing cages on the For Sale table. This will help prevent so much congestion at the table.

Only the person in charge of the For Sale section, or their authorised assistant, can sell cavies. Your money will be available from 3:45 onwards.

No straw, hay, sawdust or shavings or other loose bedding, are allowed at shows and this includes the For Sale section.

Apart from a quick last minute 'brush up' and Longhairs, NO GROOMING allowed at shows. If it is not groomed before the show you will have to put it on the table ungroomed!

METTE the VETTE

She'll make your pigs better.

You and Your Vet.

A very common complaint when talking to cavy fanciers is, that vets don't know what to do when confronted with a sick cavy. And of course it's not very satisfying to leave your cavy's life in the hands of a vet who doesn't know how to handle a cavy and who thinks that cavies are not worth wasting money on, and who probably doesn't have a clue about how to diagnose and treat them properly. Most vets can't really be blamed, as what they learn about cavies as veterinary students is very limited. In Denmark we have a voluntary course in the last year of Study called 'Diseases of Exotic Animals', which deals with all sorts of hobby animals apart from dogs, cats, poultry and fish. It is a 30 hour course where students learn about diseases in rabbits, rodents, birds, reptiles, monkeys, llamas and other ZOO animals. Try to figure out how much time there is spent on the subject of cavies? About 30 minutes, I should guess. I don't know exactly how the situation is in England, but it won't surprise me if it is similar to Denmark.

All this doesn't sound very encouraging, but before giving up totally, as it seems like consulting a vet is just a waste of time and money, here are a few words of advice on how you and your vet can get the best out of the situation.

HOW TO FIND A GOOD VET

No vet can live from cavies alone, so don't expect to find a vet in the yellow pages claiming to be a cavy expert. In and around larger towns there may be vets specialising in 'Exotics' who usually know a lot about cavies, but they are few and far between. In larger Animal Hospitals, there may be a vet interested in rodents. If there is, you're lucky, and you know where to go. Word of mouth recommendations seem to work all right too. Try to ask other cavy fanciers in the area if they can recommend any particular vet.

Quite often your search for a cavy vet will be fruitless. Don't despair. Although it may be a bit more troublesome, you have to find a vet, who is interested in learning about cavies, ie you may have to 'educate' your own vet. First of all, you had better find a promising vet before you desperately need one. Try to call different vets in your area and ask them if they know about cavies and their diseases, or if they in any way would like to deal with cavies. Most vets will answer your questions honestly, and if one sounds particularly interested then give him a try next time you need veterinary assistance. The vet may not know much about cavies but if you feel you can trust him and he is a vet of the right kind, he will be interested in hearing and learning about cavies, ie breeds, breeding, feeding and housing. Recommend V.G. Richardson's book 'Diseases of the Domestic Guinea Pig', and lend him any literature you have about cavies. This knowledge together with his general veterinary knowledge, will finally create a superb capacity in cavy diseases (hopefully). Recommend him to other fanciers in the area, and he will soon get experienced in cavy diseases, and if he finds it worthwhile, he might even attend courses, ie at he BSAVA (British Small Animal Veterinary Association) about cavy diseases. Now you've got him, and you will soon find that all your efforts have been worthwhile, as your cavies now get the best possible treatment, and even if therapy fails, you know that the best and the most up to date treatment has been applied to your cavy.

Well, that was a few words about how to find a good vet for your But to succeed 100%, you must make an effort yourself.

A WORD OF ADVICE

Now that the wet weather is here, you might be wondering why the cage floors are wet even though in a shed or some other dry condition. THINK!!! You are picking grass etc which is soaking wet for their fodder. Also even scraps from vegies from your supermarket and also if you buy Greens. They are all wet and this is why the cage floor is wet which makes for miserable conditions for your cavies. Hint: pick or buy at least a day before feeding. Place a thick (and I mean thick) layer of Sunday Times or similar size newspaper. Open it up so that it is unfolded. Spread your wet grass or greens over the entire open space, place another thick layer of opened Newspaper on top of your spread out greens, encasing them in newspaper, then roll up both layers with greens inside. Roll tightly enough to squeeze the wet into the newspaper. Feed the following day.

Please note that the minimum weight of any cavy to be sold at shows has increased from 200 grams to 250 grams.
