UPCOMING SHOWS

Christmas Show
Sunday 14th November
Royal Park Hall
West Perth
Judge: Heather Harmon
Start Time 9:30

Please note that no cavy is to be sold for less than $25. Please bring boxes for your cavies to go to their new home in.

Benching fee of $3 for every cavy sold, there will be no fee for unsold cavies.

Please attach detail tags to your cages BEFORE placing cages on the For Sale table. This will help prevent so much congestion at the table.

Only the person in charge of the For Sale section, or their authorised assistant, can sell cavies. Your money will be available from 3:45 onwards.

No straw, hay, sawdust or shavings or other loose bedding, are allowed at shows and this includes the For Sale section.

Apart from a quick last minute 'brush up' and Longhairs, NO GROOMING allowed at shows. If it is not groomed before the show you will have to put it on the table ungroomed!

Editor's Rant

Had a request to reprint the article on Fungus Fighting as there seems to be a lot of it around. Even though it was a wet winter last year and a very dry one this year, it does not seem to have made any difference in the amount of Fungus problems around. Although Fungus is reasonably easy to treat it is hard to eradicate as the spores can sit dormant for years.

It is getting hot and we all must prepare for the hot days ahead. Not my favourite time of the year, already I wish it was over!

Have not received any feed back from the puzzles and things, does anyone do them? Too hard, too easy? It is hard to tell when I have to make them as I know the answer.

As always I would like to get some ideas for articles or better yet, some actual articles! Don't forget it only has to be cavy related, poems, photos, short stories, anything would be welcome.

Fungus Fighting

By Sharon Deas

(Reprinted by request, first printed Nov/Dec 2009)

Due to many reasons, including the long warm, damp winter weather we had, problems with Fungus Infections were more common than usual this year, but it is possible to get a Fungus problem at any time of the year.

How does your cavy get an Fungus Infection? The answer is, very easily! Fungus spores can be airborne as well as being on any object, including the cavies' food or hay or whatever. Anything can carry Fungus spores, and any animal can be infected by Fungus, INCLUDING YOU, so be careful when handling any cavy with a Fungal infection. It is best to use gloves but at least wash well after handling/treating any cavy with a fungal infection.

There are some excellent photos, descriptions of infections and treatment of infections, to be found on <http://www.guinealynx.info/fungus.html>

For those who do not have the internet, a fungus infection is usually, but not always, found on the shorter haired areas of the cavy, often on the face, belly or legs of a cavy. However they can be found anywhere on a cavy. Usually noticed as a bald spot of flaky, itchy skin. As it is so irritating, the cavies scratching can cause bleeding wounds. Some cavies can show irritated/aggressive attitude if they are touch on, or close to, the area of the fungus infection, this seems especially so for those that have the infection in the middle of the back where they can not scratch it. Often you are unaware of the infection until a patch of hair falls out. Very annoying if it is just before a show!

Another common way of getting a fungus infection is through a carrier. These cavies do not show any sign of having an infection but they are carrying it and can infect any cavy that is contact with it, or some cavy on the other side of the shed! You can have a large group of cavies in together but only some will get it. Some seem to have a natural immunity to it, others are just plain lucky as the fungal spore did not land in a good spot to start an infection. Fungus spores can sit dormant for years, so do not be surprised if it shows up, weeks or even months after you think you have got rid of it. Disinfecting everything in sight will help, but not guarantee, that you will not get a further infection.

TREATMENT.

Fortunately it is fairly easy to treat and lots of ways of treating it. There are topical creams, dips, oral treatments and natural oils. I have tried different ones at different times and they all work, some better than others.

As I said earlier, you can catch a fungal infection from your cavy yourself, well I managed to do just that, not once but twice, but it was a good opportunity see which worked the best on me as well as on the cavies. Not just on how quickly it eradicated the infection but also how it soothed the itchiness. I will go from the best to the not so good.

Quit-Itch. (There are other similar products with different names.) A broad spectrum antiseptic, fungicide treatment. Can be bought at most Stockfeed stores, pet shops, and Vets. You should always have some Quit-Itch, or similar product, on hand. Follow the directions of washing the cavy in it and also apply it full strength to the affected area. Washing the cavy in it also helps prevent further infections and treats any area you are not yet aware of. Using on myself, I found it was by far the best for soothing the itching. It worked better on the cavies than it did on me, probably because they did not keep washing off!

Oral treatments, they work but are a bit expensive and does nothing for the itchiness. A topical treatment also needs to be applied. Oral treatments should also only be a last resort.

Topical treatments. Any fungal cream, including Athletes Foot treatments, ringworm cream, etc. It does not matter if they are for people or animals, they are much the same. They work but did not work as quickly as Quit-Itch and are not as good at soothing the itching either.

Natural oils, like Teatree Oil, and Eucalyptus Oil. There are other oils but I only tried these two. They worked, but very slowly, they were also a bit more messy and especially in the case of Eucalyptus Oil, very smelly! Cure your blocked sinus at the same time! They also were nowhere as good as Quit-Itch for soothing the irritation, and believe me it does need soothing! In fact I found it a little irritating rather than soothing the itch.

Letter Tile Answer

Keep your cavy in a cool spot with lots of water and a frozen bottle on those hot days.
